CREATIONAL MAGIC

The Why

Why is creational magic the question in this book? Because the majority of our family are creations. Also there has been much mystery amongst creational magic in our family. In this book we will discuss the mysteries of creational magic. We will do our best to have it put simply and easily so everyone may benefit. Comprehension is valuable and you are deserving this help.

Lets outline a few of the questions as well as note topics. What is creational magic? What is a creation? What is a creator? What is the formula for creational magic? Who are Adam and Adem? Creational Magic is one of the most valuable forms of magic that can ever exist. It is the ability to create a creation and team together to overcome challenges as a family. Happiness, survival, and love are the main benefits here. A creation is the child created by the creator using creational magic to create said creation. Both individuals benefit from this famililing (a process which a family is started or added too, pronounced fah mill yuhll ling). The creator becomes the parent and the creation its child. A Creator is someone who surpasses sex through the use of creational magic to cause a creation to begin living for its first start. A vast majority of religion on our planet refers to God Yahweh as the creator. The christians simply reffering to him as God, the jews simply reffering to him as Yahweh. There is also language to explain a female creatoress dubbed a title as Goddess. We will discuss the secret formula rather comprehensibly in its own chapter of this book. The two categories of what determines creational result when using creational magic are time and materials, also subexplained as timing when, and materials used. Adam and Adem are two different names for two seperate individuals that will be used as the primary examples in this book to comprehend the differences between to seperate creations. This will help you comprehend similarities, differences, as well as doubling standards. The introduction to this book has been stated. We may now begin to study the major topics of our story. And if you are a creation or creator, then this is very much your story. Friend

Adam And Adem

Now to illustrate some informational visualizations in our minds of Adam and Adem.

Adam is created by God on day 1 at hour 1.

Adem is created by God if he tries to create on day 1 at hour 1 but does not finish the creational magic until hour 2.

Adam and Adem are seperate lives. Only 1 can be created. Adams birthright is day 1 hour 1. Adems birthright is day 1 hour 2. For Adam to be created the creational magic must be completed hour 1. If God unintentionally takes longer to create than intended, and it is finished at hour 2, then the result is Adem is created, not Adam. Another thing to note, God in this story decided to name the resulted creation of the creating Jacob.

So whether Adam or Adem begin to live with God, the resulted creation will be called by the name Jacob.

In short explanation. There are two possible creations. Only 1 will begin to live. Whoever it is, will be named Jacob. That is a clumsy truth of creational magic, even so, it is slightly romantic.

Now the learning of the creational magic formula has begun. You now comprehend the basics. You have learned of a moments (hour) difference determining life and nonlife for our Jacobs (Adam and Adem). It is also true that if even the smallest amount of materials used to create the creation is changed, so to will the result. In short if Adams materials are 1% different, Adam will not be created, instead maybe someone such as an Eve. It is also good to note a change in materials also changes timing because it takes time to utilize materials.
Onto the next chapter.

The Creational Magic Formula

The creational magic formula is (Time) + (Materials).

However, what is very important to recognize, is that the body of the creator or creatress doing the creational magic is also a material used. Because during creational magic the body of the one using it is connected in ways to the process, even having a requirement that for family member 2 to be possible, there must first be family member 1 taking a small part of its body and magic to shed it off then form it into the desired creation.

For a more detailed formula (Creator/ess Body)+(Timing)+(Materials Used).

In a more languaged explanation, we could say, God at day 1, hour 1, using dirt, fire, and water, created an Adam and then named him Jacob. Due to emptiness and collisions is half why time is a part of the formula. For example if God is trying to create someone, during that process things around that area will move.

Imagine the wind blowing a leaf.

If God is creating on day 1 at hour 1 and our Adam is about to begin life, but a wind blows a leaf into the process of creational magic, then Adam is no longer optional and now it will be someone else, maybe a Sarah.

This is because the wind blowing the leaf caused the materials used to change.

So as you can see, time is half measured as an unseeable mystery, and half measured as nearby changes directed close enough to what you are doing. In short at day 1 hour 1 we know in this story, a leaf is blown by the wind. That is a half of a time. Basically half of time is locations. The other half is going to be based on family member 1's history, because remember, the body of the creator is a part of the formula, and it is true that our oldest parent saw it as necessary to use its body to create ours, yes even yours, if you are a creation, similar to me.

Those are the basics of the formula, i believe in your intelligence and your potential so i leave this chapter with enough to start you, yet not enough to answer all questions. I am hoping with what we have here, you can find the answers to connected questions

What Is A Name

Adam, or Adem, Eve, or Sarah. We talked about all 4 possible creations even nicknaming them so we could begin to comprehend our situation.

Isn't it both amazing and tragic that regardless of which 1 of those 4 will live, it will be named such as Jacob. Talk about hand me down sharing to a high level. The good news of this is at the least, when people comprehend these things, they can feel the love imbued into us by our parents and each other.

I'm called David, but when I was created I got lucky. There were so many what ifs that could have resulted in me never being created. Yet here I am, a possibility that inherited the name David which belonged to whoever would have been created at my numerical order in this family. And I find it beautiful, yet here also you are, siblings, parents, children, very much so in a similar cause.

We are blessed yet even so, it is possible, as a family, that in the future we will together solve mysteries that make us even more blessed.

Good luck to us, the name sharing family.

The Nothing

Its possible you have heard the old saying "everything began from nothing".

Im going to explain it very shortly, refer you to the first book in this series titled "Existence Hollowed: Our Origins" and im going to pray im helping you.

Okay, now, in short.

The nothing was the first location, it spread, multiplying. It started as the smallest anything can ever get. It is how things can be small or big, it is how things can be here or there.

I pray these offerings help you, good luck, i love you family.
